L.I – To write a dialogue between two characters

What do you think their conversation might be?

“It is wonderful to be playing Mozart with you Joyce, we have had the happiest times here.”

“I know, playing all the classics and whispering sweet nothings into each other’s ears, thank you,” said Joyce politely.

“Your smile is so beautiful and your hands are ever so soft,” whispered the Pianist. “I miss you!”

Which other pairs of characters could you write a conversation for?

What do we need to remember when we are writing a conversation?

1. Do you have speech marks at the start and at the end of the words which are being spoken?
2. Do you have a capital letter at the start of the speech?
3. Do you have your punctuation inside the speech marks?
4. Have you started a new line every time somebody new starts speaking?
5. Do you have punctuation before the 1st speech mark (when the speech isn't at the beginning of the sentence) and before the last speech mark?

TASK

Write your own conversation between two of the characters using the speech checklist we have looked at.

Think about the feelings and emotions we have already thought about this week and how the characters feel about each other and their situation. You could also include memories or discuss specific moments.
