Write a narrative

Today, you will be writing your narrative on the 'new' beginning of the short animation story 'Soar'. Using your plan, and also all of the skills you have learned over the last two weeks, think about how you can create a descriptive narrative of the plan you devised yesterday.

Things to remember!

- Describe, Describe, Describe! – Think about how you are going to paint the picture of your proposed scene and the characters in your story.
- Follow your plan, and do not deviate from it too much!
- How can you create the ‘feeling’ of the story using selective techniques and language?

Mara awoke once again to the deafening silence of her sparse bedroom. Another day filled with the void of anything interesting to do. Thankfully, the bright sun shone through the moth bitten curtains that were draped over the window leading to one of her only true interests, bird watching. On a day like this she was bound to be treated to the sounds and sights of a menagerie of birds taking flight to the cloudless skies – if only she was able to join them.

Mara dreamed of being able to fly, the wide openness of the sky was a tempting pool ready to be explored. She had plans to become a pilot one day, following in the footsteps of her wise old grandfather, a hero in her eyes.
